San Sebastián, Spain
Summer Session II 2012

Study with visiting professor
Dr. Arthur Scarritt, Boise State University

The New Immigration and European Change (GEOG/SOC, 300-level, 3 credits, taught in English)

This course investigates issues surrounding current immigration trends from the Global South to Spain. We specifically look at Latin Americans, North Africans, and Eastern Europeans. Using readings, discussion, lectures, and fieldtrips, this class addresses the following questions. How are current global immigration patterns related to earlier periods? How do global economic relations generate the supply of and demand for migrant labor? How do individuals in different social locations experience immigration? And, how have European socio-cultural patterns changed, in terms of accommodation, xenophobia, and intermixture? Particular attention will be paid to understanding the global dimensions of local manifestations of changing immigration trends.

San Sebastián Program Highlights:

- Enjoy activities such as surfing and hiking, cultural events, and conversation partner program with local students
- Live in a stunning location on Spain’s beautiful northern coast, twenty minutes from the border of France—with easy connections to Madrid, Bilbao, and major European cities
- Benefit from San Sebastián’s well-known exceptional cuisine and beautiful surf and beaches
- Join excursions in Spain and the French Basque Country to prehistoric caves, mountains, and traditional fishing villages

Host University: University of the Basque Country
Maximum program enrollment: 65 students
Minimum GPA: 2.5
Language of instruction: English/Spanish
Application deadline: May 1
For more information: http://usac.unr.edu